Lamson, D. D. , of Hartford, Conn. , president of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, died here suddenly at about n o'clock to-day. Death was due to neuralgia of the heart. Dr. Lamson was 56 years of age. Rev. Dr. Lamson left Hartford about the middle of July and went to St. Johnsbury, his former home, where he and his family have since been spending their vacation. His health has apparently been excellent, and friends say that he had never complained of any heart trouble in the past. I have had no career. I have always been a plain parson of modest ambitions and modest success. In these words Rev. Dr. Charles M. Lamson, pastor of the Centre Congregational church, replied to the request of a representative of this paper about one year ago when it was suggested to him that something about his career would be of interest to the public. The reply was characteristic of the man and shows to what an extent his individuality has been sunk in the work of he minister and pastor. Perhaps, too, it came very near to hitting he keynote of a career which, although not yet of long duration in this community, has made of its possessor one of the most beloved and honored of the clergymen of this city, where there are many such. Charles Marion Lamson was born in North Hadley, Mass....
