Come with me to the mountains, not where rocks Soar harsh above the troops of hurrying pines, But where the earth spreads soft and rounded breasts To feed her children; where the generous hills Lift a green isle betwixt the sky and plain To keep some old-world things aloof from change. Here too tis hill and hollow: new-born streams With sweet enforcement, joyously compelled Like laughing children, hurry down the steeps, And make a dimpled chase athwart the stones; Pine woods are black upon the heights, the slopes Are green with pasture, and the bearded corn Fringes the blue above the sudden ridge: A little world whose round horizon cuts This isle of hills with heaven for a sea, Save in clear moments when south-westward gleams France by the Rhine, melting anon to haze. The monks of old chose here their still retreat, and called it by the Blessed Virgin s name, About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
